

THOMAS DANE GALLERY

'Must See London', Artforum, September 2, 2014

Following Benglis's first-ever UK survey at Thomas Dane in 2012, the current exhibition presents a new series by the American artist who is best known for her flamboyant feminist responses to New York's predominantly male Minimalist art scene in the 1960s. Benglis's latest works are ceramic sculptures—a medium that has been an important part of the artist's oeuvre since 1990—which she has pulled, pinched, and crushed before glazing in a wide spectrum of color.
